Sorghum Festival

Saturday, October 28th
10:00 a.m. – 5:00 p.m.

Sunday, October 29th
12:00 p.m. – 5:00 p.m.

Hancock County Fairgrounds
Hwy 1389
Hawesville, KY 42348

Located one mile south on Hwy 1389

Hancock County, famous for its sorghum, long ago acquired the reputation as the Sorghum Capital of the World. The Independence Bank Sorghum Festival promotes and highlights the county's sorghum growers and industry. Come prepared to sample and enjoy a vast array of sorghum delicacies and take some home with you. Demonstrations will be taking place all day along with other vendors. Live music performances throughout the weekend!

"We appreciate the opportunity to provide the Independence Bank Sorghum Festival to Hancock County and surrounding communities. The Sorghum Festival has been a tradition in Hancock County for many years. Through the Bank's commitment and the involvement of many Hancock County citizens this will be the 5th year we have been the sole sponsor of the Sorghum Festival. With the continued support of the community Independence Bank plans to sponsor this community event annually for years to come. This event has grown bigger and better each year. Make your plans to attend the Independence Bank Sorghum Festival to experience a great time with family and friends."

Rick Embry
President, Independence Bank

All local Sorghum producers are invited to produce, demonstrate and sell their sorghum at the festival. Admission to the Sorghum Festival will be free to the public, but we do ask for donations of non-perishable food items for the "Backpack for Buddies" Hancock County School System initiative.
