Independence Bank

For: immediate release

Jack Sweeney named Chief Deposit Officer for Independence Bank

Jack Sweeney has been named Chief Deposit Officer for Independence Bank. Jack joined Independence Bank in September of 2017, and has been working alongside the Louisville team as Independence Bank continues to expand into the market. Jack oversees deposit strategy for all of the Banks 12 markets.

“I was happily retired for two years when I was approached by Independence Bank. Based on the culture of Independence Bank and the excitement of building a franchise in Louisville I willingly decided to postpone retirement. It was the best decision I have made.” said Chief Deposit officer, Jack Sweeney.

A lifetime resident of Louisville, Sweeney holds a B.A. and M.B.A from Bellarmine University. Jack held a previous position of Senior Vice president and Public Finance Banker at PNC Bank. He has expertise in government, healthcare, higher-education and not-for-profit industries. Over his 40 year banking career, he has financed many well-known Louisville institutions. Jack also serves as a board member on the Catholic Education Foundation of Louisville.

President, Louis Straub said, “Jack is one of the most respected experts in Treasury Management in a multi-state region. Early in my career, he was a trusted colleague and before his retirement an excellent competitor. It is wonderful to be working with an honorable friend and mentor again.”

Jack and his wife have two children, five grandchildren, and two great-grandchildren. Outside of serving his community, Jack enjoys spending time with his family, and golfing.

Independence Bank currently operates a full-service banking location at 2120 High Wickham Place off of Old Henry. Construction is currently underway for a signature location in the heart of St. Matthews.
